Singing is the act of producing musical sounds with the voice and augments regular speech by the use of sustained tonality, rhythm, and a variety of vocal techniques. A person who sings is called a singer or vocalist (in jazz and popular music). Singers perform music (arias, recitatives, songs, etc.) that can be sung with or without accompaniment by musical instruments.

An old Italian axiom is, The art of singing is the school of respiration, for whenever we sing with the throat open we shall become breathless, unless we control the breath rightly. This branch of the art has its equivalent in a right use of the bow in violin playing, and in a right kind of touch in pianoforte playing.
